#InThisTogether

TASSTA wants to make its contribution to support aid organizations

TASSTA is managing and working in this unprecedented global environment, and we can help your teams stay connected and productive. We take our role supporting you and your organizations very seriously, and we want to be sure you have a view of the tools we've made available to you and your teams.

We are thankful for all health and public aid organizations working so hard on a daily basis to help the communities and society and mitigate the spread of the virus. To support these groups of heroes we want to aid through our products the best way we can.

TASSTA's communication solution is now available for free for up to 200 users till December 2020.
